FUTURE PLAN FOR OXFORD FALLS REGIONAL CROWN RESERVE

A draft plan of management for the Oxford Falls Regional Crown Reserve is on public exhibition until 7 October.

NSW Minister for Lands, Tony Kelly, said the Land and Property Management Authority, in consultation with Warringah Council and other stakeholders, has prepared the draft plan.

“It covers approximately 520 hectares of Crown land within the Warringah Local Government Area at Oxford Falls, Beacon Hill, Ingleside, Belrose and Cromer,” the Minister said.

“It provides an efficient approach to managing Crown land in the region and promotes a balance of public use and enjoyment of the reserve, environmental protection and identification of appropriate future land uses.

“The plan aims to establish a clear management direction for the reserve providing practical, achievable and sustainable management strategies and actions.

“It is anticipated this plan will form the basis of a future state park proposal over the Narrabeen Lagoon Catchment.

“The Oxford Falls Regional Crown Reserve is significant in terms of its environmental, cultural and recreational values and this plan will enable these resources to be managed in a more efficient manner.”
